Closes midnight on 31 March 2019

Ukie's Digital Schoolhouse powered by PlayStation, sponsored by SEGA and Warwickshire County Council uses play-based learning to engage the next generation of pupils and teachers with the Computing curriculum.

With additional funding from the Department of Digital, Culture, Media and Sport, this year we're looking to expand our network of 34 Schoolhouses to total 50 across the country. The programme aims to reach 25,000 students and 5,000 teachers in 2019 and we invite schools and colleges from across the country to join us.

We've collaborated with the likes of BBC, Disney and BAFTA, and featured in the Royal Society report, the recent EdTech 50 and more, bringing us one step closer to realising our vision of bridging the gap between industry and education.

The benefits:

- Free to join!
- Free CPD & training for teachers
- Raised school profile locally and nationally
- Ground-breaking careers education
- Direct links with the UK video games industry
- Free classroom resources
- Leading teaching pedagogy
- Boosted network locally and nationally
- Direct contact with a specialist Digital Schoolhouse teacher
- Free personalised support programme for every Schoolhouse
